LT. R. F. WHEELER. 26 April, 64. The good management which usually marks military movements was seldom more evident than when the regiment left winter-quarters for active operations this year. Tents were struck at sunset, the camp was left at 10 p. M. , several pleasant hours were spent on the march to and on the wharves at Portsmouth and, by 3 A. M. , of next day, the right wing was settled away on the Geo. Leary--the left wing and guard on another boat. With continued promptness, we got under way by noon, reached Yorktown before dark, were dumped on the beach under the bluffs, and went into bivouac then and there. 28th. Moved a mile or two up river. Made a camp of shelter-tents--then distributed for the campaign. Weeded out more men unfit for active soldiering....
