Though the question of workingmen s insurance is one that is but barely entering upon the stage of discussion in this country, in Europe it has assumed a position of great practical importance. To-day there is not a country on the Continent in which this question does not occupy the foremost place among measures actively considered for improving the condition of the laboring classes. In the modern movement for economic reform there is probably no one subject that offers so many features of paramount importance. As a social measure, it presents the most radical step to improve the condition of the laboring classes that has been undertaken since the rise of the modern industrial system.
